About the survey

This survey is a part of a housing study conducted by Georgia Conservancy and MicroLife Institute, in partnership with the City of Lyons, City of Vidalia, Toombs County, Greater Vidalia Chamber, and the Toombs County Development Authority. The housing study aims to collect information from a variety of sources, including voices from the community, to assess housing metrics, opportunities, and challenges in Toombs County and its cities.*

What does the survey ask?

*The survey is aimed to collect information about a variety of topics related to living and/or working in the county. It will gather basic demographic information, information about housing and transportation, and opinions regarding new housing development in the county. All responses are anonymous.

Who should take the survey?

You should take the survey if you live in Toombs County, or if you live elsewhere but work in Toombs.

How can I take the survey?

The survey is hosted on Google Forms. To participate in the survey, you can scan the QR code on this flyer, or you can visit: <https://forms.gle/CysdrQ7mtoNGbBp28>
